84 WIRE TRUST MEMBERS INDICTED

FRANK JAY GOULD, SATTERLEE AND OTHER FINANCIERS ON THE LIST.

NINE INDICTMENTS AFFECT THIRTY-FIVE FIRMS.

Government Charges Restraint of Trade in Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law by Agreement With One Another.

Nine indictments charging 35 firms with restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law were re-against as many associations and 34 individuals, comprising the so-called "wire trust," affiliated with the steel industry.

Prominent among the defendants are Frank Jay Gould, of New York, president of the Old Dominion Iron & Nail Works Co.; Herbert L. Satterlee, a son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, and William P. Palmer, president of the American Steel & Wire Co., subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

"What this suit charges," said District Attorney Wise, "is a trade agreement in restraint of trade." The government does not seek to establish a physical or fiscal merger of the properties or interests indicted, but a series of pools to maintain prices and apportion territory, in elimination of competition, and so in violation of the Sherman act.

Thus the suit appears as a further earnest of the government's determination to deal rigorously with restrictive trade agreements. There is no indication, however, that evidence gathered by the bureau of corporations in its investigation of the steel corporation played any part in the indictments. Only two subsidiary companies of the U. S. Steel Corporation are mentioned, the American Steel & Wire Co. and the Trenton Iron Co.

The general charges in all the indictments are the same, allowing for the difference in the business in which the defendants were engaged. It is set forth that the various associations organized under their association names and each elected a supervisor, and adopted rules and regulations.

Class of 1911 Gets Sheepskins.

More than 900 men and women have been added to the number of graduates of the University of Michigan. President Harry B. Hutchins handed them the sheepskins for which they have been toiling for four years or more, and they walked out of University hall for the last time of their college career, out into the world for which they have been preparing in the university's halls.

Before the presentation of the sheepskins they listened to the commencement address. Dr. Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, was the commencement day orator this year, and his address made a deep impression on his hearers.

U. of M. Adds to Curriculum.

The degree of Doctor of Public Health, which was conferred on Dr. Guy L. Klefer, of Detroit, and Dr. William Evans, of Chicago, by the University of Michigan at the commencement exercises at the U. of M., is a new degree at Michigan, and is conferred by but three others in the United States, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia.

At a recent meeting of the board of regents a course leading to the degree of doctor of public health was adopted and it is planned to begin the courses at the opening of the university next fall.

Unions Decide to Raise Funds.

Samuel Gompers and 100 officials of organized labor, including the heads of many international unions, met Friday to devise means for raising a defense fund for John J. and James McNamee, now in jail in Los Angeles, under indictment for alleged disloyalty. After a long debate it was determined to make an appeal to the unions of all organizations to raise ten cents per capita and forward to national or international headquarters to be turned into the fund. Some of the organizations will levy assessments to that amount.

Ten Men Killed in Buffalo.

Seven men were instantly killed and 30 injured, three so seriously that they died within a few minutes when the new pumping station of the Buffalo water works at the foot of Porter avenue, collapsed. The Porter avenue pumping station was nearing completion but had not been put in order for supplying the city water. The property loss will be over a million dollars.

The men were mostly machinists installing machinery inside the building. They were buried under hundreds of tons of brick.

Dana Carter, a farmer, 60, hung himself from a rafter of the barn, near Lapeer, in a fit of despondency. His son found him hanging there.

One thousand people listened to the address made by ex-Governor Folk, of Missouri, at the second day of the Coldwater chautauqua. Governor Folk dwelt at some length on the corruption in modern-day politics, his subject being, "The Area of the Conscience."

Another crowd of imported workmen which are employed by the furniture manufacturers of Grand Rapids went to work in the Elgin plant. There are now 2,800 strikebreakers at work in the various plants, and the manufacturers say that they will be able to handle all orders given in July during the exposition.

NO DEATHS IN WASHINGTON

The third "safe and sane" celebration of Independence day in the national capital came to a close without a single death and with no injuries as a result of the observance of the day. Thousands gathered on the White House ellipse to witness a brilliant display of fireworks which was followed by the illumination of Pennsylvania avenue from the treasury building to the capitol.

The program for the day, which eliminated all promiscuous bomb shooting and picnic displays, opened in the morning with patriotic exercises before the district buildings. Fireworks in the White House lot followed. In the playgrounds throughout the city myriads of children participated in the observance and band concerts were held in the parks. A canoe regatta on the tidal basin rounded out a varied program of sports.

D. U. R. Cars Crash Near Fair Haven.

Dazed by the intense heat, Sam Brishois, a D. U. R. Interurban motorman, ran his car out of Mill's switch, a mile north of Fair Haven and in Mayor Seidel, of Milwaukee, Burned.

Mayor Seidel, of Milwaukee, was burned about the head and face when a puff of flames burst from a gas heater which he lighted in his bathroom.

Mr. Seidel had just returned from the east, where he had made several speeches. He had intended visiting the several parks throughout the city to see how the same celebration of the Fourth was being carried out, but prior to his outing prepared for a bath.

In lighting the heater the flames burst forth in his face, singeing his eye-lashes and burning his face and one of his eyes. It was at first thought the burns would prove serious, but after examination by a physician the burns were pronounced not serious.

The collision with a north-bound car which resulted a few minutes later, J. Fishnell, motorman of the other car, was killed and 30 people, including many women and several Detroiters, were injured. Motorman Brishois was so badly crushed that it is believed he cannot recover. None of the others hurt are in a serious condition.

The D. U. R. officials say the heat is the only explanation for Brishois' disobedience of orders. The man had not been on duty long enough to have been exhausted otherwise, and there is no other reason for his taking the car out on the main line when he should have stayed on the siding.

Johnstone Falls Fifty Feet.

St. Croix Johnstone, one of the brilliant figures in the aviation meet at Detroit, fell nearly 50 feet in his Moisant monoplane, No. 13, in the presence of 12,000 spectators, and emerged from the wreckage of his machine practically unhurt. Johnstone was endeavoring to get a start to lower his record in the Detroit-Pontiac cross country flight. The machine swerved, spun clear around and plunged downward. The right wing struck first and it was this that broke the impact so that the compartment in which Johnstone was seated withstood the crash.
